Abstract

revalence of psychiatric disorders and violent crime is unprecedented in the national health emergency sectors especially FMC, Keffi health in a box. Psychiatric clients were recorded among the psychiatric cases in the clinic in federal medical centre, Keffi. The cardinal objective of the study is to investigate the prevalence of psychiatric disorders and ways to curtail incidences of psychosocial disorders in the mental behaviour process of the clients under examination. The current states of disturbance of psychiatric patient clinic were characterized by schizophrenia disorder, anxiety disorder, depression disorder, alcoholic, antisocial personality disorder and mental illness and violent crime behaviour. Clinical depression and bipolar disorder were characterized by profoundly sad mood, overwhelming feelings of self-blame, guilt, and worthlessness, appetite disturbance in a recurrent thought of death or suicide. The study revealed that the effective prevalence and treatment for psychiatric clients will enhance management of the psychosocial disorder and the recovering of health well-being of the psychiatric patient's clinic. The study concluded and recommends that the psychiatric disorders and violent crime were assessed through medical examination and national registers with reported incident psychotic symptoms. The pattern of inner experience and behaviour of violent crime is a significant health problem causing severe medical and social problems, considerable human suffering a huge economic cost. The prevalence of crime rates may supply more information about criminal behaviour than crime registers because of the high rate of unregistered less severe violent crime and therefore underestimate the psychiatric disorders and criminal behaviour.

Background to the Study

Prevalence of psychiatric disorders and violent crime in the recent survey study of a nationally representative sample of the population aged over the years (Hema, 2020). The diagnosis was assessed using the composite international diagnostic interview from self-reports, medical examinations and national registers standard. Psychiatric disorders and crime are limited to the psychiatric, forensic samples representative data on the relationship of DSM-S psychiatric disorders, comorbid substance and mental health disorder and multimorbidity number of disorders in criminal behaviour and Justice involvement. The diagnosis on specific disorders examination used in Federal Medical Centre Keffi, Nasarawa State related conditions were Schizophrenic disorder, Substance abuse psychosis disorder, anxiety disorder, depression disorder, Epilepsy psychosis features, somatization disorder, dementia disorder, Bi-polar disorder, seizure, multiple anxiety, post-partum depression with psychosis, migration among other imbalance behaviour recorded in a psychiatric clinic under review. The prevalence of schizoaffective disorder, schizophreniform disorder, delusional disorder of bipolar disorder was major depressive episode with likely incident of reported cases. Similarly, the issue of mental illness and crime often attracts national attention with psychiatric disorders which are more likely to engage in a violent criminal behaviour (Kelly, Lindsay & Sherry, 2021).

Currently, several epidemiological studies have highlighted prevalence rate of psychiatric disorder and violent crime behavior among the reported cases of the clients' individual with mental illness and occurring substance use disorders often was rapidly cycle through the justice system with multiple arrest (Lauren, Dennis, Wiehe, 2021). The prevalence of mental health and substance use diagnosis among arrestees and repeat arrestees to identify is characterized by a clinically significant disturbance in an individual cognition, emotional regulation or behaviour (WHO, 2022). It is usually associated with distress or impairment in important areas of functioning. Disorders may also be referred to as mental health conditions. The latter is a broader term covering mental disorder, psychosocial disabilities and mental states associated with significant distress, impairment in functioning or risk of self-harm. In 2019, in every 8 people or 970 million people around the world were living with a mental disorder, violent crime with anxiety and depression disorders. In 2020, the number of people living with anxiety disorder and depressive disorder rose significantly because of the Covid-19 pandemic. In 2021 and 2022 Initial estimates shows 44.01% and 7.9% increases in schizophrenia disorder and depression. Substance abuse psychosis were 5.44%, anxiety disorder 5.56%, bipolar disorder 4.24%, migraine 1.49%, panic disorder 0.42% and mental retardation 0.53% as major depressive disorder in a health in a box representing a total of 936 summary statistics table for psychiatric clients in clinic for the year 2022 captured and revealed in the scientific research unit annual report, 2022.

The study also collaborates and revealed research conducted in 2019, 301 million people were living with an anxiety disorder including 58 million children and adolescent (Hema,2021). Anxiety disorders are characterized by excessive fear and worry and related behaviour disturbances, symptoms are severe enough to result in significant distress. The prevalence of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and other mental disorder is high in conflict-affected settings. It is characterized by all of the re-experience the traumatic intrusive memories, flashbacks, or nightmares, avoidance of thoughts and memories. Schizophrenia affects people which is characterized by significant impairments in perception and change in behavior. Symptom may include persistent delusion, hallucination, disorganized thinking, highly disorganized behavior. People with Schizophrenia may experience persistent difficulties with their cognitive functioning. Yet a range of effective treatment option exist, including medication, psychoeducation, family interaction and psychosocial rehabilitation. This disorder disruptive behaviour and dissocial disorders the other is oppositional deficient disorder. Disruptive behaviour and dissocial disorders are characterized by persistent behaviour problems such as persistently defiant or disobedient to behaviour that persistently violate the basic rights of others or mage age-appropriate societal norms, rules or less (Moltra, Santomaura, Collins, Vos, Whiteford & Saxena, 2022).

Clarification of Concepts

Clinical Depression: A mental health disorder characterized by persistently depressed mood or loss of interest in activities causing significant impairment (Hema, 2021).

Anxiety Disorder: A mental health disorder characterized by feeling of worry, anxiety or feat that are strong enough to interfere with one's daily activities.

Bipolar Disorder: A disorder associated with episodes of mood swings

Dementia: A group of thinking and social symptom that interferes with daily function.

Attention deficit/hyperactivity, Hyperactivity Disorder: A chronic condition including attention difficulty, hyperactivity and impulsiveness.

Obsessive Compulsive Disorder: Excessive thoughts (obsessions) that lead to repetitive behaviour (compulsions) (Craige, 2023).

Autism: A serious development disorder that impairs the ability to communicate and interact.

Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder: A disorder characterized by failure to recover after experiencing or witnessing sterrifying event.

A Mental Health Disorder: Characterized by persistently depressed mood or loss of interest in activities, causing significant impairment in daily life possible causes include a combination of biological psychological and social sources of distress (Abhishek, 2018).

Symptoms requires a medical diagnosis the persistent feeling of sadness or loss of interest that characterizes major depression can lead to a range of behavioural and physical symptoms. These may include changes in sleep, appetite, energy level, concentration, daily behaviour or self-esteem (Howard, 2011).

Mental Illness and Crime

The mental illness causes more problems than it solves: Ashworth and Gostin -in Hema (2021), note that the mental illness is not defined in the Mental Health Act and therefore much will depend upon medical opinion. They are used for a wide range of diagnostic categories including psychoses, affective disorders, anxiety states, hysteria and so on. Inspection of admissions to special hospitals shows that by far the greatest number of mentally ill. Serious offenders are diagnosed as schizophrenic, with depression – the next most frequent diagnosis.

Schizophrenia

This refers to a disorder that affects a person ability to think, feel and behaviour clearly. The most important indicators of schizophrenia, which would not all be found in one person includes disturbances of thought, perception, affect and motor behaviour. Thought disorder refers to a disturbance of the process of making associations between thoughts. Perceptual disturbances are evinced by hallucinations, which may be visual or tactile but are most commonly auditory typically as voices commenting or giving instructions. Many people associate schizophrenia with crime, particularly violent crimes (Hema,2021; Institute of Health Metrics & Evaluation,2022).

There are indications that a relationship may exist between paranoid ideas and violence and that the victims of violent attacks are often those who figured in the schizophrenia's delusions. Crimes of this type catch the public imagination. Roseder (2017), notes that the cases of Ian Ball, in which delusional thought processes were manifest in a plot to kidnap a member of the family and the controversy as to the role of his paranoid schizophrenia in the murders he committed. Schizophrenias are slightly more likely to commit violent offences than other disordered groups or the general population (Abhishek, 2018). Schizophrenia may be directly related to violence with delusional and paranoid beliefs of apparent importance a simple relationship between the disorder and the crime is unlikely to exist. James (2017) suggests that it is not unusual to find that the violent act of a schizophrenia cannot be directly explained by the current psychopathology. This negate the relevance of the illness ... social and illness variables must be considered together from a survey of 121 psychotic offenders 20% of the actively psychotic were directly driven to offend by the psychotic symptoms and a further 26%-probably so. Then over 80% of the offences of the psychotic were probably attributable to their illness.

Depression

Depression an act of depressing or a state of being depressed. A state of feeling sad, low spirit, mood disorder that is marked by varying degrees of sadness, despair and loneliness and that is typically accompanied by activity, guilt, loss of concentration, social withdrawal, sleep disturbance and sometimes suicidal tendencies (Merriam-Webster, 1828). According to Akin (2018) depression is required and warranted because are indicative of the psychological state known as depression. Psychological manifestation such as loss of energy, poor appetite, sadness, worry and agitated behaviour. Depression can also be associated with thought of suicide. Depression is a mood disorder that causes a persistent feeling of sadness and loss of interest. Also called major depressive disorder or clinical depression, it affects how you feel, think and behave and can lead to a variety of emotional and physical problems. (Craig, 2023).

Hema (2021), clinically, depression is distinguished major depression and bipolar disorder. Major depression is characterized by profoundly sad mood, overwhelming feeling of self-blame, guilt and worthlessness, appetite disturbances, fatigue and long periods of sleep, lethargy and recurrent thoughts of death and suicidal. Bipolar disorder is typified by bouts of mania as well as periods of depression during the manic phase the individual shows elated or irritable mood, high levels of furious physical activity go long periods without sleep, and displays a general air of self-importance and inflated self-esteem. Depression incorporates a wide range of biological cognitive behavioural and social factors. As with schizophrenia or mental illness, there are difficulties in establishing the relationship between the depression and crime. A range of possibilities exits. The crime may have been committed because the offender was depressed; the offender may become depressed after the crime either because of guilt or imprisonment the offender may been depressed when committing the crime. The depression and crime occur when an individual becomes convinced that life is hopeless and before committing suicide kills his or her children and other members of the family (Moses, 2019).

Psychopathic Disorder

Psychopathic disorder as a persistent disorder or disability of mind which results in abnormally aggressive or seriously irresponsible conduct (Hema, 2021). Checkley identified the psychopath by listing the characteristics observed in clinical practice. These identifying characteristics place emphasis on the emotional and social emptiness of the psychopath. Example superficial charm and good intelligence; Absence of delusions and other signs of irrational thinking; Absence of nervousness or other psychoneurotic manifestations, unreliability, untruthfulness and insincerity, lack of remorse or shame, inadequate motivated antisocial behaviour, pathologic ego centricity and incapacity for love, unresponsiveness in general interpersonal relations, fantastic and uninviting behaviour with drink and sometime without; failure to follow any life plan (Hema, 2020; Lauren, Dennis & Wiehe, 2021).

Personality Disorders

Personality disorder refers to an enduring pattern of inner experience and behaviour that deviates markedly from the expectation of the individual's culture, and is manifested in at least two of the following areas: cognition, affectivity, interpersonal functioning and impulse control. It is pervasive and inflexible across a broad range of personal and social situation. Antisocial personality disorder is a pattern of disregard and violation of the rights of other. APD has a prevalence of 2-3% and is 4-5 times more prevalent among men than women. The lifetime prevalence of APD was estimated to be 4.5% among mole and 0.8% among female.

Conduct Disorder is a repetitive and persistent pattern of behaviour in which the basic rights of others or major age-appropriate societal norms or rules are violated. Conduct disorder is one of the most frequently diagnosed child psychiatric disorders. Its prevalence has increased over recent years and may be higher in urban than in rural settings. The combination of CD and ADHD was found in 78% of those with early APD. Hyperactivity and CD showed equally strong prediction of APD and criminality. Conduct problems were associated wit6h many other adverse factors such as ineffective parenting practices, discordant and unstable families, poor peer relationships and educational failure. The problems predicted APD independently of these family and social factors.

Substance Use Disorders

Substance Abuse is a maladaptive pattern of substance use manifested by recurrent and significant adverse consequences related to the repeated use of substances.

Perspective of Violence

Understanding of violence is not simply a theoretical quest; it is a matter of considerable professional and public concern. In dealing with violent offenders the legal system is faced with the decision of first whether imprisonment is necessary or for the imprisoned offender Whether it is safe to release a given offender back into the community on parole (Hema, 2021).

Violent Crime

Violent crime is a significant public health problem causing severe medical and social problems, considerable human suffering and huge economic costs. Young size, male and psychiatric disorders are general risk factors for violent crime. The incidents of violent crime are unknown since a high proportion of such crime remains undetected, unregistered and uncleared. For example, in the 2000 international crime victims survey, the percentage of robbery offences reported to police varied from 30 to 75%, assaults from 15 to 70% as sexual assaults from 28 to 65% of the rates reported by victims in population (Hema, 2021).

Severe violent crime such as homicides and attempted homicides are likely to be more comprehensively reported, investigated and recorded than less severe ones. Chronic offenders constituted 15% of the cohort and had committed 74% of the official crimes. They also accounted for over 80% of the personal injury offences and property offences recorded since the onset of their career (Institute of Health Metrics and Evolution, 2022).

Psychiatric Disorders and Violent Crime

Several studies have reported the association between psychiatric disorder and violent crime. The optimal study design might be a prospective study comparing the occurrence of violent behaviour between persons with and without validated psychiatric diagnoses and unbiased method to clarify the criminal behaviour. The risk of violent crime is among persons with alcohol dependence, marijuana dependence and schizophrenia – spectrum disorders persons with at least one of these disorders constituted one fifth of the sample but accounted for half of the violent crime.

Persons who reported violent behaviour when intoxicated were more likely to report injuring a victim and being injured. Violence when intoxicated was increased (Akin, 2018, Hema, 2021).

Prevalence of MMD Among Homicide Offender

Sch is over - represented among homicide offender. Paranoid Chizo affective and residual types were over - represented in comparison with the rates occurring in the general population. Schizo effective disorder was diagnosed in 12% of offenders. The paranoid subtype was the commonest among males among females. Major depressive or manic episodes were not associated with increased likelihood of committing homicide – (WHO, 2022, MHA, 2020).

Psychology of Criminal Behaviour

From longitudinal and other kinds of studies, we know a great deal about the psychological makeup of offenders. We do not know about every offender nor about every kind of offender but in the aggregate, it is clear that the typical offender is not only a young mole but a young mole with a particular configuration of psychological traits. Such as intelligence, personality and temperament, biology of criminality.

Discussion of Result Findings

The table above represents findings of the statistics contained in the scientific research unit annual report 2022. The major findings revealed that 44.01% and 7.90% of patients were the cases of schizophrenia disorder and depression. Substance abuse psychosis were 5.44%, anxiety disorder 5.56%. Bipolar disorder 4.24%, migraine 1.49%, while panic disorder and mental retardation 0.42%, 0.53% respectfully. Depressive disorder in the health in a box representing a total of 936 synopsis of statistics table for psychiatric clients in the clinic for the year 2022 captured and revealed in the scientific research unit annual report, 2022. The study affirmed and collaborates in the research conducted in 2019,301 million people were living with an anxiety disorder including 58 million people (Hema, 2021). Depression, anxiety, schizophrenia is characterized by excessive fear and worry and related behaviour disturbances, symptoms are severe enough to result in significant distress.

In conclusion, psychiatric disorders and violent crime were assessed through medical examination and national registers with reported incidence of psychotic symptoms. The pattern of inner experience of violent crime is attributed to health challenges with a lot of severe medical and social issues as well as huge economic consequences. The paper recommends that prevalence of psychiatric disorder in violent crime behaviour is unprecedented in contemporary society especially among clients in FMC, Keffi. Therefore, management and authority concern as well as security apparatus need collaboration. There should be enabling environment for social engagement and interaction with clients related issues which will provide adequate and useful information to address the phenomenon in relation to disorder behaviour. This will help to reduce incidence of unregistered clients with cases of violent crime behaviour. Therefore, psychiatric disorders and criminal behaviour need to be treated. Provision of modern facilities, healthcare system, professional practitioner should be effective in order to provide adequate measure and to enhance better performance.
